Suicide of Charles C. Ferris at Ellendale This Morning.

Strange Theory for the Act Advanced by Fellow Employes.

THEY THINK HIS MIND WAS AFFECTED BY HANDLING MEDICINES.

No Other Cause Known for the Deed-A Neighbor Claims Ferris Had Been Acting Strangely-The Suicide Was Superintendent of the Manufacturing Department of Meyer Bros. Drug Co. -The Strange Death of Chemist Smythe of the Same House Recently Gives Color to the Theory of Strong Drugs Affecting the Mind.

Chas. C. Ferris, Superintendent of the pharmaceutical production department of the Meyer Bros. Drug Co., committed suicide this morning by shooting himself in the head with a 38-caliber revolver, at his nome at Ellendale, St. Louis County.

Considerable interest is given to the car by a theory which has been advanced that Ferris' suicide was the result of his mind ecoming affected by his constant handling

Mr. Ferris left the Meyer Bros. Drug Co. on Fourth street and Clark avenue, at 5:30 o'clock last evening, after giving some instructions to the employes of the laboratory as to what should be accomplished the first thing this morning. He joined a party of friends at the Union Depot and at o'clock they left for Ellendale over the Missouri Pacific. When they reached the little suburban town Mr. Ferris bade his friends good-night and departed for his little home, which he had but recently purchased. He ate his supper and retired with the remark that his head was giving him a great deal of trouble and he desired to get a good night's rest.

THE FATAL SHOT.

He slept soundly until 5 o'clock this morn. ing, when he arose, and after tak-ing a revolver from the dresser drawer, he down stairs into the dining room he deliberately blew out his where Mrs. Ferris rushed down into the aining hall where she found her hiuspand in his death agony, lying in a pool of blood. Throwing her heavy cloak around her, Mrs. Ferris hurried across the street to the residence of Mr. Lyman Thomas and requested him to convey the information to the Meyer Bro. Drug Co., which he did by telephone at 7 o'clock this morning.

When the news of Ferris' suicide reached the city none were more surprised than the and the employes of proprietors and the employes of the Meyer Bros. Drug Co., as Ferris had been with the firm for over eight years and commanded a handsome salary. The unfortunate man's assistant, Mr. Peck, who is now in charge of the department, has worked with him for five years and has probably been his most intimate friend. When Mr. Peck was seen this morning by a Posr-Disparch reporter he had just learned of his superjor's suicide. proprietors

Peck was seen this hold just learned of his superior's suicide.

"It is a surprise to me," he said, "for when he left the building last night he seemed to be in the best of spirits and made the remark that he would be in on time in the morning as he had considerable work to do. I can't imagine what induced him to commit such a rash act, unless he was worried over his building and loan association troubles. I heard him say worried over his building and loan association troubles. I heard him say last week that he was having more or less trouble over his investment at allendale." This theory was investigated and proved to be without foundation. The home of Ferris at Ellendale was originally the property of Mr. James McCauslin, who sold it to Mr. George N. Truesdale, who in turn disposed of it to Mr. Ferris. Payments have been promptly made and no trouble of any character was in existence between the George N. Truesdale Real Estate Co, and Mr. Ferris.

George N. Trussacher Ferris.
Mr. H. S. Harrington, employed in the Wabash general offices, and a neighbor of Mr. Ferris, was seen this morning and asked his version of the suicide: "In my opinion the man did not know what he was about," rethe man did not know what he was about, "responded Mr. Harrington. "I went out on the train with him last night and sat in the seat behind him. He was not very talkative, but appeared to be in his usual good spirits. When we arrived at the traiton we made a passing remark and I hurried on home, he following me.

STRANGE ACTIONS.

"When I heard this morning that he had committed suicide I made the remark that was out of his bead. I have noticed the man for some time past and his actions created a suspicion in my mind that his head was not level. I was sitting in my kitchen one night last week, when Ferris came to the door suspicion in my mind that his head was not level. I was sitting in my kitchen one night last week, when Ferris came to the door with a lantern in his hand, and inquired the way home, stating that he was lost. I thought he was joking, but directed him home, just across the street. I had no sooner taken my seat when he appeared at the front door with his lantern, when he once more inquired the way home, I had about come to the conclusion that he had been drinking, but I soon ascertained that he was not. I accompanied him to my front gate and watched him until I saw him enter his front door. Several times before he has been lost within a block of his house, which led the neighbors to remark that Mr. Ferris was not altogether right.

As Mr. Ferris was not altogether right.

As Mr. Ferris had no financial obligations which he could not meet, was well and comfortably situated in the suburbs of St. Louis with his wife and four children, the theory of his suicide most generally accepted is that he was femporarily insant to the most with his wife and four children, the heavy of powerful drugs, and believe his insantly was superinduced by his work in the laboratory of the drug company where he had been employed for the past eight years, five years of which time he spent in the branch house at Kansas City.

employed for the past eight years, five years of which time he spent in the branch house at Kansas City.

Ferris' suicide and this theory of the effect on the mind of handling strong drugs recalls the death of wm.

J. Smythe, the assayist and analytical chemist of the Meyer Bros. drug house. Smythe assayed and analyzed the drugs which Ferris put up to see that they were properly manufactured. Smythe was found dead in his room at 23:46 Olive street Tuesday afternoon Nov. 22 last. The body, fully dressed, was lying face downward, on the bed, the face buried in the pillow and one hand holding a handkerchief that had been hand holding a handkerchief that had been hand holding a handkerchief that had been saturated with chioroform to the nose. His suicide was a profound surprise to his employers, who valued him as a steady worker and a trustworthy man. Smythe was engaged to be married to Miss Daisy Blain of Detroit, Mich, and in a lettur from him received by her the night before his suicide gave no intimation that he was any way dissatisfied or despondent, or had any idea of taking his life. In fact the letter was very hopeful in its tone. No one could assign any cause for the suicide and some of his friends advanced the theory that, as he was adicted to the morphine habit, his death was caused by an overdose of the drug accidentally taken. The Coroner's yerdict, however, was suicide. If the theory that handling drugs is apt to affect the mind

HARD ON BONDSMEN.

Judge Edmunds Will Set Aside No More Forfeitures.

Consternation will spread through the ranks of professional bondsmen around Four Courts as soon as they learn the determination of Judge Edmunds of the Criminal Court to take judgment on forfeited bonds and not to set aside any forfeitures. Since opened on Jan. 3 forfeitures have been declared on all bonds where the defendant failed to answer to his name when called by the Deputy Sheriff. Attorneys practicing in Courts have for years had cases continued at the first setting and on that account they have never asked their clients or their witnesses to be in court. Six defendants who followed this rule were treated to a surprise by having their bonds forfeited and having a deputy sheriff hunt them up and cast them in jail. Judge Edmunds from now on will insist on the defendant being in court when his case is called and even though the case is continued he will call the defendant and make him respond or forfeit his bond. He is determined that the court over which he presides shall be shown all the respect due it by defendants, witnesses and jurors. In the cases of jurors or witnesses cases of jurors or witnesses who have been summoned and do not appear he will issue warrants for their arrest and send deputy sheriffs to bring them lato court. There they will have to give a very good excuse for remaining away or be fined heavily for contempt of court, and if excused they will have to pay the costs of attachment any way. This is done to prvent delays in trials and put a stop to the practice of continuing cases in the Criminal Court for years as has been the custom heretofore.

Yesterday Judge Edmunds forfeited the bonds of Wm. Killey, Wm. McNevires, Wm. Maroney and John Haley. Their cases were on the docket for the first time and they failed to answer their names when called. To-day their bondsmen brought each of the men into court and asked that the forfeiture be set aside, Judge Edmunds gave the bondsmen and the defendants a lecture and set aside the forfeiture, but made the announcement at the same the announce time that hereafter when he declared a bond forfeited he would not set it aside under any circumstances. Judgment would be taken on the bond and bondsmen as soon as possible and the property of the bondsmen would be attached. If any forfeitures were to be set aside the parties desirin git would have to go to the Governor and plead their case. After to ay he would not set aside a forfeiture as long as he occupied the beach of the Criminal Court. me that hereafter when he declared a bon ing-house on Washington street.

His home is in Portland, Ore., but he is here on a business trip. The fact of the matter is that he regards himself as a drawing freak for a dime museum, and is looking for a manager to take him to the World's Fair at Chicayo.

Chicago.

Charley is one of the few survivors of the disastrous Jeannette expedition, and for meritorious conduct during the terrible privations suffered in Northern Siberia has recently been decorated by Congress with a handsome gold medal.

While he exhibits the badge with no little pride he does not like to talk of that terrible tramp through the ice-fields of Siberia that cost so many men their lives. When questioned about it he simply shrugs his shoulders and says:

"Plenty cold; plenty hungry. No good."
It was in June, 1879, that Lieutenant de Long selected Charley to accompany the illiated expedition as cook. Charley had a good situation as cook in a private family in this city at the time, but the offer of a much better salary tempted him.

His commander carefully explained the deadly perils to which he would be exposed, but he could not comprehend the real nature of the expedition. He considered it a sort of Government picnic party and thought he would have a soft berth.

"Me heap big fool, allee same Melicans."
he said yesterday, when asked why he had accepted the position. "Nex' time catchee 'noda Chinaman. Me heap sube. Charley was assigned to Engineer Meiville's boat, and took his place at the oars until they were compelled to desert their boat. In addition to carrying his little store of provisions he helped draw the sledges during the long tramp over the loc fleids south to Irkutek.

The supply of browskis were rapidly being exhausted and orly enough to sustain life were given out each day, still Charley did not touch those he carried. It was then that threats were made against the life of the Chinese cook, and often he was on the point of bartering his supplies for his life, for he feared that he would be murdered some night for the sake of his scanty allowance or food. Finally the little band were left without a morsol with which to sustain their lives, and starvation was staring them in the face. Then it was, according to Charley's story, in that he placed his little stock of provisions in the hands of his commander. The men who had before threatened him then, blessed him and all said: "Bully good man; bes' fellow in clowd. No die now."

With these provisions the party was enabled to reach the Northern Russian settlements, where the half-famished men were supplied with food by the natives.

Charley is fat and sleek now, but he spends a great deal of his time meditating on the days when he expected either to be starved or murdered.

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn., Jan. 5 .- Further details of the battle between the mob of lynchers and the Sheriff's posse at Bakersville N. C., Tuesday night, fully verify the brief account wired the Post-Dispatch yesterday

The mob was composed of 500 men from Mitchell, McDougall and Vancy Counties. They marched to the Bakersville jail Tuesday night for the purpose of lynching Galvin Snipes, the murderer of Isaac Osborne. HAGER BYRD. When the mob proceeded to the jail headed by John and William Osborne, brothers of the murdered man, Sheriff Moomaw's voice rang out: "Halt or I'll give the order to fire." The enraged mob paid no attention to the warning from the Sheriff, but made a mad rush to the jail. The Sheriff gave the command fire and winchesseventy-five ters rang out on the cold night air. The shower of bullets that met the infurlated mob only checked the leaders for a moment, and at the command of the gigan-tic mountaineer leader, William Osborne, the fire was retaliated with deadly results. A dozen of the Sheriff's posse fell dead or wounded and every window in the jail was shattered. Their bodies hampered the deputies who were unharmed, and only a few could close up to the windows and return the volley before the men was upon them. There was a short struggle, but the posse was outnumbered. A few revolver shots and 100 clubbed rifles and all was over. The leputies, with their leader. Sheriff Moomaw nortally wounded, were in the hands of the mob and every one of them was looking down the muzzle of at least three Winchesters. Without waiting to pick up the dead or care the door of the jail and it went down before the shoulders of a score of stalwart men. The prisoners were reached. They were the was after, were confined the two Whitson brothers, Thomas and John, under sentence of death for the murder of Kit Byrd. The mob, once inside the jail, quickly determined to lynch these men with Snipes. They were the only ones in the jail, and the mob had trouble in breaking down cells. Half dead with fear they were dragged out into the open air, where ropes were placed around their necks, and with 100 men mad with the thirst for blood at the end of each they were dragged over the ice covered rocks to a piece of land half a mile away. Behind them followed the rest of the mob, firing at the prostrate forms every minute. The victims were dead before they had been dragged twenty yards, and it was the mere semblance of human forms that were strung up when the woods were

When the mob had accomplished its purpose, it returned to the scene of the battle. Dead bodies were found in the road, in the barn and in the jail yard, while the wounded were scattered all over the jail yard. Brave Sheriff Moomaw was found in the coal shed dying. The bails of five Winchesters in the hands of the mob had done the work. He was shot twice through the chest and three times through the abdomen. In the road, side by side, lay the lifeless bodies of William and John Osborne, the leaders of the mob. The direct cause of this bloody battle grew out of the murder of Isaac Osborne by Calvin Snipes. Calvin Snipes, Aaron Wissman and William Sneed last August were partners in an illicit distillery. Isaac Osborne and William Osborne discovered the distillery and reported it to the revenue officers a Bakersville. The owners suspected the Os bornes as the informers, and decided on a plot to murder them secretly. Wissman and Snipes went to the house of Isaac Osborne on the night of Aug. 77 and called him up. Osborne came to the door and they opened fire with shotguns, riddling him with bullets. Wissman was tried before a justice of the peace and sufficient evidence could not be obtained against him, so his discharge was ordered. Snipes was tried and bound over to court. After being in jail a few weeks Snipes confessed, telling the whole story. When Wissman heard this he left the country. Ever since the murder the brothers of the dead man have been untiring in their efforts to arouse the public to vengeance. William Osborne never ceased circulating petitions until a mob was organized to attack the jail, which it did with horrible results.

Senator Washburn Confident of Success for Anti-Option.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 5 .- Senator Wash burn is confident to-day that he will get a vote on the anti-option bill some week. He says that next no conflict between d Senator Sherman, be and between self and Senator Sherman, who is advocating the Nicaragua Canal bill, as they had a talk yesterday, and sherman informed Washburn that he nad no desire to displace his bill. He, however, urged Washburn to insist that the Senate hold daily and even night sessions in order that an early vote be reached. It is probable that Washburn will pursue this course, and he is certain that a vote can be secured, and that he can pass the bill by a vote of 2 to 1.

The President to-day sent to the Senate the following nominations:
Postmasters: Pennsylvania—Thomas O, Williams, Lansford, Kentucky—Harriet R. Weir, Greenville.

Missouri—Reuben Albert, Fredericktown; Charles W. Griffith, Greenfield; William Smith, Marshfield.

Indiana—George M. Fountain, New Carlisle; J. T. Brotherton, Dunkirk; John Zimmerman, Cannonton; August Schreiber, Teil City.

KANSAS CONTEST.

The Rosenthal-Stubbs Case to Be Decided

To-Day. The court announced that it would decide the case on the pleadings and would take no evidence, as the facts were well understood. It would, however, take a little time to conside the case and therefore court was adjourned until 2 o'clock, when the Coffee County case will be called. It is believed that the decision in the Rosenthal case will be announced this afternoon. Four Populist candidates for Speaker of the House have appeared: W. M. Campbell of Stafford County; A. W. Whittington of Lincoln; R. H. Semple of Franklin, and O. M. Rice of Coffey. These men are making an active canvass for the speakership, regardless of the fact that there is a majority in the face of the returns in favor of the Republicans in the House. The earnestness of these candidates and the confidential claims made by the Populists' leaders that they will not only organize the House, but will be able to elect the Senator without the aid of fusion Democrats, revives the suspicion that the Populists contemplate organizing a "rump" House should the Supreme Court fall to give the seats they are contesting for.

Wieser, who resides on the third floor of 1808 South Broadway. Miss Beichtold is 26 years of age and is said to be a well developed blonds of medium size. She left the home of her parents in Illinois April 21, last, to work for Mr. Vogelsang, who, according to Annie's mother, was at that time a bookkeeper for a butcher who was doing business in the vicinity of Eleventh street and Cass avenue. The last letter Annie mailed was received by her mother five weeks after she left home, since which time her parents have been in ignorance as to her whereabouts. Her mother came to this city last week and has been engaged ever, since, in endeavoring to locate her daughter.

THE MILLIONAIRE CHICAGO PACKER TO DOUBLE ITS CAPACITY.

A Deal Which Will Greatly Benefit St. Louis-The Establishment to Be Used for Beef Packing-Whittaker & Bons Will Continue in Business and Build Another East Side House.

A deal which is expected to materially inrease the volume of the pork packing business of St. Louis become generally known on change to-day, and was considerably discussed. The extensive firm of Francis Whittaker & Sons have, within the past few days. sold out their hog plant at the National Stock yards in East St. Louis to the stock yards company, and it is generally understood that Swift & Co. of Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, etc., will take possession of the property and greatly improve it, preparatory to embarking in the business of packing beef on a very large scale.

The firm of Swift & Co., one of the very having vast interests in many cities. largely interested in Stock Yards in St. National The head of is known among the butcher trade as one of the "Big Four." For some time past G. F. and D.F. Swift have been looking about for a location for an external plant. The purchase of Whittaker plant is known to mean that the Swift & Co., being large owners in the stock yards, are naturally interested it increasing the stock receipts and by conducting a large part of the business at this point they will help to bring a bout that result. They have for a long time wanted to concrete their interests here and now that they have the room they will a head, making this one of their principle places of business. They will probably in crease the capacity of the Whittaker plan it of particles of beef to St. Louis, and when they got their big beef plant here will be able to enter the market on a better footing.

they will initially included to the price hore."

Mr. McEnnis declined to state the price paid for the Whittaker property, saying that that was a private matter, but he was evidently highly pleased at the change, and the sum was no doubt a good round one.

The addition of Swift & Co. to the St. Louis meat packing establishments gives the city three big concerns which have heretofore been known as Chicago houses. These are Nelson Morris, the East St. Louis Packing Co. and Swift & Co. The Nacional Stock Yards are already Morris, the East St. Louis Packing.
Co. and Swift & Co. The National Stock Yards are already among the most extensive establishments of the kind in the country. It is the intention of Swiit & Co. to further vastly improve them, and the erection of another big plant and a bog plant on the Whittaker property will be the first step in that direction. Business over the river is very satisfactory at present and the outlook for the next year is very bright.

COURT-HOUSE BURNED.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Jan. 5.—At 20'clock this morning the Alleghany Court-house was destroyed by fire. The flames started in the Grand-jury room, and by the time assistance had arrived, had made such headway as to render futile all efforts to save the building. A greater part of the records were saved and it is not believed that the loss in this respect will be great or irreparable. The building was a two-story brick and cost 330,000. Inpeople. The Judiciary Committee wants a day for miscellaneous business, as do several other committees. Mr. Hland has not yet preferred a request, but it is his intention to see the Speaker and ask another opportunity to pass a bill providing for the free coinage of silver.

Mr. Harter and other uncompromising anti-silver men say they are anxious for a trial at a repeal of the present Sherman silver buillon purchase law and as a renewal of the silver fight is about the only thing which the radicals on both sides of the currency question seem arreed on, it looks as if there would be another bout in this Congress over silver legislation.

There appears to be a disposition in the senate on the part of the Republican members to one siltle as possible pending the change in the Administration and the possible change in the Administration of the Senate itself.

Itself.

A leading Republican Senator said to-day that outside the appropriation bills there would be little done. "We are not disposed to ignore sanitary legislation and that matter will be attended to as soon as possible," he continued. "It would be folly for us to pass any partisan measures, for they would not go through the House, and the calendar would simply be lumbered up with a mass of bills that could never become laws. Looking at the situation from every point of view, I am inclined to think that we will do as little as we possibly can."

Beer is selling to-day at the price of yeste day, $4 a barrel, but the syndicate is ready to reduce it another dollar if necessary to put the opposition in a position where it can cut no lower. Mr. Ellis Wainwright of the St. Louis Brewing Association said to-day: We are not making a war, we are merely putting the price at $4 a barrel to keep these nearly every saloon they supply they hold he lease of and practically run it."

"Your releations with Anheuser and Lemp are all friendly, however, are they

"Yes. I have had a talk with Mr. Busch and met Mr. Lemp on 'Change. We are not interfering with each other at all. The beer trade was all right until these new concerns went in in violation of their agreements."

THE OTHER SIDE. The new brewerles seem to be getting along all right at present and take equally positive grounds.

At the National Brewery, which is run by At the National Brewery, which is run by the four Griesiedieck boys, one of the members of the firm said: "There was no reason why we should not go into the business. Tilere is money in it and the syndicate cannot expect us to remain idle. Of course we have cut into their trade, as is always the case in any business when a new concern is started, whether in the brewery, dry goods, grocery or any other business. All our customers are our friends and will stick to us in spite of all they can do."

At the time Mr. Griesiedieck was speaking two saloon-keepers who had changed over to the syndicate came in and said that they had been capfured by the $4 bait, not knowing that there was a war on, and straightway renewed thier aliegiance to the National Brewery. Mr. Griesiedieck said further "We feel justified in the course we have taken, and because they got my father into the thing against our advice and wishes there is no reason why we should not go into business. We will meet every cent and can hold all our trade without any trouble."

Mr. Caspar Koehler, who sold out to the syndicate, having been formerly connected with the Excelsior Brewery, came out of the inner office of the National Brewery and said:

"I am not in the business, you know, but I am just like Anton, the father of these boys; I want to see them succeed in business."

"What is the syndicate trying to do; kill them off or run them out of the business?"

"I don't know that, but just wait, things will continue lively for some time." will continue lively for some time."
Under the added encouragement of the Koehler talk Mr. Griesiedleck said that as to the quality of the beer and such they could fight on even grounds and could handle their business without any loss to speak of, even at the present prices, which were about cost.

EAST ST. LOUIS.

The leading saloon men do not look upon the move with favor and are inclined to the belief that they will suffer.

John W. Peckington said: "I don't see where we will be helped much, and you can be sufe that we will suffer in the end. Our customers come in and I tell them that it is a bad sign when a man comes to you and says he will do a certain thing for one-half what some other man will do. The price has not really been reduced 50 per cent.

injury was only a depression, and not a fracture of the skull, and not so severe as was supposed.

A jury in the City Court to-day rendered a judgment against the Citizens' Electric Kallway for $7,500 in favor of Patrick Cowley, a son of Thomas Cowley, residing on St. Clair avenue. The boy was run over by a car on the stock yards line about a year ago, and had a leg so badly crushed that amputation was necessary. The father sued for $15,000, and got a judgment, as stated, for half that amount.

John Cunningham, a switchman employed in the yards of the Clover Leaf Road, was probably fatally injured early this morning. While in the act of making a coupling he was caught between the drawheads and crushed. He was removed to his boarding house on the Island. His injuries are internal, and their extent is not definitely known, but it is not thought likely that the man can recover.

Judge B. H. Canby of the City Court untied three nuptial knots to-day. He granted divorces to Louisa Miller from Louis Miller, on the ground of desertion; Julia Lamb from Lawrence Lamb, on the ground of cruelty, and Carrie German, from w. H. German, on the same grounds.

John Meilig, an old resident, died suddenly early this morning, aged 75 years. His death, which occurred at his home on Collinsville avenue, between Summit and Pennsylvania avenues, was probably due to old age, though he had not been in good health for some time.

WAS IT CONSPIRACY!

The San Juan River outrage is likely to produce a scandal of the first magnitude. The district lying in the southeastern corner of Utah has until recently been reserved for the use of the Navajo Indians. Several weeks ago, it is said, President Harrison opened the reservation for settlement by a proclamation which was not given out to the public. Taking advantage f this proclamation, which did not prolaim, a lot of Washington officials enered claims and are now in full possession,

This is the story which came out a few lavs ago and which has not been contralicted. It places President Harrison and secretary Noble in a position from which t is to be hoped they can extricate themelves, for the bitterest partisan would not wish to see men so highly placed involved n a transaction so disgraceful. Neverthe-'Conspiracy'' is written all over the transaction and the burden of proof is on the in. administration to show that it did not actively aid the clique of plunderers in when the reservation was opened and whether or not any official notice of the fact was published. We must know how it happened that only men with large capital and a pull in administration circles got possession of the land, perfected title and placed a lot of machinery on the ground before anybody else knew that the diggings had been opened to claimants. If half the story is true there is an un pleasant duty before the Fifty-second Congress. Public officials have been impeached for smaller offenses. The House of Representatives has two months of life pefore it and if these assertions can be substantiated it cannot spend the time mor profitably than in impeachment proceed ings against the guilty persons.

THE RELIEF OF ST. LOUIS.

If the Legislature now organizing for work in Jefferson City does not enter into consideration of the state of St. Louis and come to the relief of the people of the city against pressing wrongs it will fall far 15,000,000 bushels. His estimates on the short of doing its whole duty.

legislation will be brought to its attention with anti-option legislation and Dodge's is practically assured by the preparation the administration of criminal justice in this city. This bill proposes to abolish the system of maintaining special courts for the enforcement of criminal law, by throwing the work into the circuit courts and increasing the number of judges by two. The circuit judges will then be elected, as at present, and the criminal work will be apportioned among them, or the duty of hearing criminal cases will be assigned by the whole bench to certain judges after the election.

By this plan the administration of criminal law would be brought under influences which operate to maintain the dignity and purity of the circuit bench and would not be left under the control of criminal court rings. Under the present system demoralizing forces are concentrated upon the machinery for the punishment of crime and the enforcement of law, and it has been found impossible to prevent at vital points an engine for the shielding of law breakers and official wrong-doers. The administration of justice involving the lives and liberties of citizens and the protection of the community from crime is made the pliant instrument of the most corrupt elements.

Another subject demanding prompt and radical reform is the collection of the license revenue. If the Legislature will have this matter thoroughly investigated by a commission free from the pulls and influences of city politics it will secure startling information which will compel immediate legislative action. The system of issuing and collecting licenses in this city is a monstrous anomaly. The whole power of levying the tax FORCE BILL Republicans will find a grain and collecting it is centered in one office Henry Cabot Loage to the United States issue or withhold a license and collect or Senate. It is true that the force bill was fail to collect, practically according to his more the work of Johnny Davenport than discretion. It is within the scope of his of Mr. Lodge, but Mr. Lodge fathered it opportunities to make his office a powerful

nal honesty of the Collector that the office may not be abused for political purses or for the enrichment of the Collect

How outrageously the Collector's power may be abused for the violation of law and the oppression of the people without posibility of recourse has been abundantly constrated during the Ziegenhein administration. Not only have the people seen obliged to submit to the pleasu the Collector, but through the operation of the political combine now in control of the municipal administration they can obtain no information as to the extent of the law violations and the abuses of the power of his office. In no other form of taxation and in no other part of the State are the functions of assessing and collecting tax exercised by one man. The method is wrong in principle and dangerous in practice.

The citizens of St. Louis must look to the Legislature for relief from these and other ills requiring investigation and corrective legislation. In so far as they corrupt olitics, debauch justice and decrease the evenue they are as important to the people of the whole State as to the people of the city. The Legislature cannot afford to neglect them.

STATISTICIAN DODGE.

Is it not about time Statistician Dodge of the Government Agricultural Department was suppressed? That autocrat in the statistics that so greatly influence the those which prevailed in Cincinnati when course of values of the farming product of the Court-house in that city was burned this country has done more to depress the and some petted offenders felt the butt end price of the cereal, cotton and tobacco crops than any one man who can be verestimated the tobacco crop that its value was depreciated enormously and wrongfully, and the whole tobacco trade ose up in protest against his estimates. His reports in cotton, especially his statement of last year that the world had far more cotton in sight than could possibly be used, not alone depressed the price of the staple, but drew such an indignant protest from planters and factors that Congress passed a law restricting the Agricultural Bureau to a bare statement of what the crops of this country were, withless an explanation must be forthcoming. out further comment regarding supply and demand, such as Dodge had been indulging

His latest report on the final yield of wheat, corn and oats made public vestertheir work of grab. We must know just day, is on a par with his previous misstatements. Dodge estimates the yield of wheat at 515,444,000 bushels, when in his as to forget that he is entitled to a memo last November report he stated that the crop would barely reach a yield of 500,000, 000 bushels, with prospects of a shrinkage in spring wheat. In this his final report on the '92 crops, he says last year's wheat crop "has only been exceeded in 1891, 1884 and 1882, though the crops of 1889 and 1890 nearly equaled it." In fact, 1891 with its 612,000,000 bushels yield alone exceeded last year's. The crop of 1882 was 504,000. 000 bushels and of 1884 was 512,765,000 bushels, both less than Dodge makes the crop of '92, and the yields for 1889 and 1890, which he says nearly equaled last year's, were respectively 25,000,000 bushels and 116,000,000 bushels smaller.

Now here is an actual misstatement of lacts. In his November estimate Mr. Dodge led the trade to base their operations upon a crop of not over 500,000,000 bushels. Now he comes out and upsets all calculations by raising this estimate corn and oat crops for 1892 are both far crop estimates it looks very much as farmer of this country.

ROADS AND CONVICT LABOR.

The road question and the convict labor trouble will probably come before the Missouri Legislature during the present session and an attempt will be made to kill two birds with one stone by using the prisoners in the construction of highways. While this might "settle" both questions the remedy would be worse than the disease. From a merely economic point of view the suggestion has everything to commend it, but there are counter humanitarian reasons too weighty to be ignored. The sight of convicts with balls and chains working on the public highways is not a pleasant one and to place a man, no matter how great his offense, in such a position is to deprive him of every remnant of self-respect he may have left. The State has no right to unnecessarily aggravate and advertise the infamy of any man. There are certain rights which the criminal does not lose on conviction, and one of these is the right to hope for an opportunity to recover lost ground at the end of his term.

There is a better method which is probably as easy of application. Let the convicts be fully employed, as usual, but within the prison walls, and let their wages be high enough to obviate the objection that the competition of their product is ruinous to similar trades on the outside. This can probably be brought about without driving contractors out of the field for the profit will fully equal that earned by outside employes, even at wages approximating the current market rates. But the earnings of the convict should be retained for his own benefit, or applied to the support of his family during his incarceration, less, of course, a reasonable charge to pay the expenses of his "keep."

As for road improvement it will be sence. There is no guarantee except the for which there is a strong demand, the if the need is not urgent enough to justify reasonable expenditure the work had better be postponed rather than outrage human nature by employing convict gangs whom society should endeavor to reform and help to lead honest lives. The State cannot afford to make a profit on crime.

ONE of Senator Carlisle's best qualifica tions for public office from a Democratic point of view is that he is a poor man. The merely rich man has become too prominent in American politics of late years and the possession of riches has come to be necessary if one would aspire to Cabinet honors. Animated dolar marks with several million facets, like Wanamaker and Elkins, would never be thought of for such positions were it not for their money, and their influence cannot but be corrupting whether they are actively corrupt themselves or not. The appointment of a few poor men will be an encouraging sign that Democratic ideas

THE anti-monopoly spirit is very strong n Minnesota and is taking a very practical urn. Gov. Nelson, a free trader, who has just been inaugurated, proposes to tax the gross earnings of all railway, express and mining companies. A bill is already before the Senate which will prevent corporations holding or owning more land than they use. This last is a blow at one of the worst of monopolies. There is room for similar reforms in Missouri.

THERE is nothing that a great man needs ess than a monument, and the admirers of Jefferson Davis may not mourn because Mississippians are not contributing to the proposed monument to the late President of the late Confederacy. Death of a Railway Dog.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
The employes of the Suburban Railway are urning the loss of a wonderful dog, known as Suburban Jack. He was a general favorit as Suburban Jack. He was a general favorite and pet of all hands connected with the road, from president and superintendent down to the laborers. It was his custom to jump on a car and ride to different parts of the road, make an inspection and then return to De Hodiamont, where he made his beadquarters. About one year ago in jumping off a car he broke one of his legs, the boys sent for Dr. Riine of Vandeventer place, who set it, and Suburban Jack was soon as active as ever. He met his death by attacking a large mastif dog, who injured him so badly that Officer arrow was called, and he promptly ended his sufferings.

He was interred on the private property of the Suburban Railroad, and a suitable stone will mark his resting place. He was connected with the copmany ten years.

The Meeting of Stockholders Called by Mine-Owner Whalen.

ENCE SEVERAL MONTHS AGO.

and Two of the Men Who Had Invested Beavily in His Mine Narrowly Averted -Druggist Alex. Mastbrook Tells of His Relations With Whalen.

William Whalen, the promoter of the St eter's Consolidated Gold and Silver Mining o., who has been confined in the arrest Tuesday on a warrant or fraud sworn out by Dr. F. J. Lutz, was in st. Louis four weeks ago and had a very ulent conference with a party of the stockholders in his company office of the Green Brewery Co., corner of Eighth and Sidney streets. This is of interest to the many per sons who bought stock from Whalen, because the belief has been that since his departure several years ago, he had not been in St. Louis until within the past week. But about a month ago he came here from Chicago and invited several of the heaviest investors at the offices of the Green Tree Brewery. He gave it out that he intended to explain what had become of their money, and why the the dividends were not declared as of yore, when they first bought the stock. There were present at the meeting Henry Nicolaus, superintendent of the Green Tree Brewery, who invested $13,000 in $t. Peter's; Dr. Schlosstein who sank $20,000 in the enterprise; his brother Louis Schlosstein, who gave Whalen $15,000 in exchange for stock, one of the Helmbacher family, of the Helmbacher Forge and Rolling Milling Co. John H. Zwarts of the Zwarts Homeopathic Pharmacy Co., Patrick Fox, the bookseller, and others, who have for several years moursed as lost the sums of money which they gave Whalen for the certificates of stock in $t. ABUSED HIM ROUNDLY.

Whalen opened proceedings with an attempt to make clear the situation, but he never got beyond an attempt, for Mr. Nicalaus, the Schlossteins, and a few of the others interrupted him with questions and then assailed him with abuse, so that he was obliged to give over all efforts to make a statement. Some of those who were present say that the attack upon Whalen became so heated that they feared he would strike back, but he said never a word and the danger of a personal contest was averted. Mr. Nicolaus and his uncles, the Schlosstein brothers, no doubt feit that they had good reason to abuse the man who got almost $50,000 from them for a couple of prettily engraved certificates which they have long since come to regard as worthless. Whalen evidently saw that the chief stockholders were not in a mood for explanations and he astened back to Chicago. ALEX, MASTEROOK'S RELYLIONS WITH WHALEN.
The stockholders of the alleged hole in the ground, who are ready to devour every hit of gossip about the object of their wrath, President William Whalen, had a fuley morsel to day in Whalen's story of the dramatic scene between himself and Alexander Mastbrook, the druggist, in Whalen's room at the Southern Hotel. Whalen's room at the Southern Hotel. Whalen's room at the Southern Hotel. Whalen said that when he came here Mastbrook became his agent, examined the mines and induced many persons to buy stock. But Mastbrook was a very crooked agent, according to Whalen, and the latter discharged him, although Mastbrook was $6,000 in debt to the company at the time. To get back this money Whalen induced Mastbrook to come to his room in the Southern Hotel. Once Mastbrook was inside Whalen locked the door, opened the window and then asked Mastbrook to contemplate the consequences of a fail to the street below. Mr. Mastbrook drew back in fright, and the cool Whalen then told him that he would throw Mastbrook out of the window unless he paid up the $6,000. Mastbrook became so frightened that he hastily signed the papers necessary for the transfer of the money. This is Whalen's story. Mr. Mastbrook makes a very emphate denial of it. "What are you to believe from and who is a fraud and a scoundrel?" asked Mr. Mastbrook. "When I discovered what sort of a fellow Whalen was, I determined to wash my hands of the whole business, and I went to his room at the hotel and turned over to him the $6,000 worth of stock in the mining company, which I had never paid for. I have papers from men in New York to show that be the hotel and turned over to him one could tell him. Bishop Hennessy of Wichita, Kan., at that time Fr. Hennessy of $t. John's Church, this city, introduced Whalen to me right here where I am standing," and Mr. Mastbrook pointed in a very emphatic manner to the tiled floor in front of his soda water fountain. "Yes sir, Bishop Hennessy introduced him to me, and Whalen who was very free with money, because people shoveled it into his pockets, oftentimes bought boxes of cigars, which he sent to Bishop Hennessy."

"How did Whalen ingratiate himself with

"'How did Whalen ingratiate himself with

"How did Whalen ingratiate himself with the Bishop?"
"I do not know. Bishop Hennessy went to the mines, and so did Fr. O'Laughlin and I, and we were shown through mines, which we believed to be fabulously rich, and owned by Whalen. He leased office space in my drug store and paid me $50 a month rent for a year and gave me two and a haif per cent commission on all the stock that I sold."

and gave me two and a haif per cent commission on all the stock that I sold."

"You did not lose anything then, if you did pay for the stock which you held."

"Well," answered Mr. Mastbrook, "I came out about even for there were a lot of little expenses which took a good deal of money."

Whalen's artifices must indeed have been colossal, for Mr. Mastbrook has a long istring of tricks to harrate about the alleged swindle. "Why, one day shortly after Fr. Hennessy introduced him to me, I invited Whalen to take dinner with me at my house," continued the druggist. "At a time when I was not beyond ear-shot, he said to my wife and daughter, "There is the man for whom I have been looking for twenty years all over the United States, and now I have found him and I am happy," and he pointed at me."

Mr. Mastbrook was asked to explain why it was that so many persons went to Nevada to examine the mines and returned with stories of hidden wealth which would make a 49-er turn pale with greed for gold, but Mr. Mastbrook had no explanation to offer for this strange phenomena. Mr. Mastbrook has not escaped censure at the hands of many stockholders. One of them said to-day:

"When Mastbrook came back from Nevada, he said that there was enough there to keep a forty stamp mill busy for 160 years, and fine had $1,000,000 he would invest every cent of it in the company, and now it appears that he did not at any time buy a single share of stock."

A peculiar feature of the whole transaction is the number of priests who bought stock in the company.

Perhaps the experience with Whalen of one of them, who had not the litching paim of the others, may explain how the mining king operated.

"Father, I want you to buy stock in this company; you can build an addition to your church with the dividends," pleaded Mr. Whalen.

I was at ashington when the McKinley bill was bing through Congress, and in daily intercurse with those engaged in the discussion, when of whom liked the bill about as well as did, it never was said or even interest of the bill was like our own national like of protection, passed in the interest of policy of protection, passed in the interest of the political party which brought it forward. It may be taken not as a measure of hostility to Canada, but as a measure of justice to American companies. If our case was the same our Government would probably do the

The Canadian Pacific Railway, it is true, has, by its political attitude and conduct, made itself especially obnoxious to Amer-icans. At the time of our last election its nt put forth an anti-American maniresident put forth an anti-American mani-lesto, and the road made an extremely syramical use of its influence, especially in wanitoba, in favor of a government which was appealing for support to dislike and distrust of Americans. That a road fed by American traffic and connections should be acting as a mainstay of an anti-American party and colley here may well seem anomalous to the icy here may well seem anomalous to the Washington Government. Against the Grand Trunk which, as one of the Senators id, is politically inoffensive, there no eling whatever. The President of the Caadian Pacific Railway says that his line will ot materially suffer if the threatened action ken. The road is as much English as American, or as much American as Cana-lian. It discriminates, if statements made es to comparatives are correct, against Canadian traffic, and therefore its quarrel will hardly be ours, nor need we allow it to influence our general policy towards the United States."

Canadian sugar refiners announce an advance of 4s cent per pound on all refined and white sugars. The principal reason given for the advance is the reduction in Licht's estimate for the beet sugar crop. T.W. Russell, Liberal Unionist M. P. for Tyrone, Ireland, who has been visiting Canada, left to-day for Boston. Speaking of the result of his mission in Canada, he said that the Province of Quebec had proved a veritable gold mine for him. "Here," he said, "you have home rule and the Roman Catholic Church supreme as a Christian institution and as a political machine. This is what Ireland would be if Gladstone had his way. I could say much and in another place I will say it; but this may be said here, one Quebec is enough for the nineteenth century. We shall not permit a second to be set up in Ireland."

There is great indignation expressed among the ultra-loyal English here because Lieut.
Gov. Chapleau paid an official visit to Cardinal Taschereau at the latter's palace. It was the first visit in years. The English residents say that Lieut. Gov. Chapleau's action is a recognition that the church holds the chief power in the Province of Quebec.

Representatives from St. Louis, Cincinnati, Chicago, Pittsburg and Indianapolis were Chrcago, Pittsburg and Indianapolis were present. A number of subjects come up for discussion. Rates were considered, but no definite conclusion was reached. The standard for different grades of white lead was also discussed. It is alleged that some white lead is being placed on the market under the supposition that it is of a high grade, while, in fact, it is heavily adulterated, and methods of putting a stop to this were considered. The meeting will probably be concluded to morrow. Among those present were Chairman-John A. Stevens, E. C. Goshorn, C. H. Schader, F. M. Long, A. O. Goshorn, T. B. Flower, E. W. Mitchell, J. D. Death Preferred to a Du geon. DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 5 .- Edward B. Farns orth, the son of a prominent business man, hot himself in the head on the steps of the Central Police Station last evening and died soon afterward. He had been leading a fast soon afterward. He had been leading a fast life, and recently he forged his father's name to small notes. The latter yesterday put the matter in the hands of the police and this morning Detective Tuttie found Farnsworth in a well-known resort and started with him to the station. On reaching the steps, the prisoner exclaimed: "Oh, I can't go in there!" and drawing a revolver fired the fatal shot. He leaves a young widow, to whom he had written a note asking that he be buried beside their dead babe.

Bernard Crow's Complaint. Bernard Crow living at Twenty-third and Eugenia street called at the Four Courts about 6:30 o'clock last evening and complained that he had been assaulted and plained that he had been assaulted and robbed in the saloon of Rudolph Eldracher, at 726 Chouteau avenue on the night of Jan. 2. On investigating the case the police were informed that Crow and three others called at the saloon on the night of Jan. 2 and were intoxicated and noisy. On being told to be quiet, it is stated, they went out and threw the lunch sign into the street and broke it. It is stated that Crow then returned to the saloon and attempted to go behind the bar when he was ejected from the saloon. It is denied that he lost anything at the saloon.

The House was in session from 10 o'clock until 1, and then took a recess until 3 o'clock. All this time was spent in ratifying the action of last night's Democratic caucus. In the afternoon session Speaker. Mobrey was sworn and made a brief address. The other officers were then installed. Steps were then taken to canvas; the vote cast at the last election for State officers. The Sanate and House are required by the constitution to do this in joint session.

Lieut, Gov. sleet John B. O'Meara is in the city to-day securing accommodations for his neged mother, who is anxious to see her son installed in office. When it became noised about that he was in the city the new Lieutenant-Governor was waited upon by a number of Senators who are seeking chairmanships and available committee assignments. He-said that he had made no pledges and that he was working hard to make the best selection possible. He will remain until to-morrow and will return Monday for his inauguration.

Symatografia, Caffels To-Night.

The friends of Senator Cockrell do not believe in delays. In fact, they say delays are dangerous. The House, therefore, arranged to have the joint cancus for the nemination held to-night. The election, however, will not take place until the 19th inst. After it was settled last night that Ashley W. Ewing, for years the commissioner of the seat of the permanent State Government, was to be knocked out for Sergeant-at-Arms. Of the Senate, a position he has held for years, the story went the rounds that it was a bad year for the Ewings and some had initimated that brother-in-law Cockrell might suffer. Cockrell's managers laughed, and to show their strength had the early cancus called, as they said for the purpose of putting a "storp te idle takk." The cancus takes place at 9 o'clock to-night, and the result will be a unanimous vote to confinue Senator Bouse of Pkee, Mr.

Stuart. was elected, the vote-standing: stuart. 46; Coots, 41.

For Chief: lerk only two names were presented—John W. Jacks. of. Montgomery, and M. B. Henderson of Pike, Mr. Jacks was elected. The vote: Jacks, 69; Henderson, 20.

Five candidates were placed before the caucus for Assistant Chief Clerk As follows: Gec. W. Hunter of Gentry, Ed. P. Caruthers of Jasper, James H. Dameron of Charlton, Sidney J. Ray of St. Louis, Gilbert Gilbreath of Pettis. Air, Ray was nominated by a vote of bit of 37.

The members of both branches of the State Legislature assembled in joint session at 1:30 p. m. to-day to prepare for the inausuration of Gov. Rich., which took place at 2 o'clock. They then distened to his 1-augural message and to that of Gov. Winans, the retiring Gov. ergor.

MANY POINTS COVERED. GOV. RUSSELL'S MESSAGE TO THE MASSACHU-SETTS ASSEMBLY.

Boston, Jan. 5 .- Gov. William E. Russell o-day transmitted to the State Legislature his annual address. He opens with an acknowledgment of his appreciation of the knowledgment of his appreciation of the renewed confidence expressed by the people in his re-election. Of the purity of elections he says: "The use of money in large amounts for campaign purposes without restriction is still a public evil, and the looby, if not as serious and scandalous as in the past, still exists as a malignant influence, tainting legislation with its corrupting touch. I recommend legislation to define the objects of expenditure for campaign purposes, and to restrict its amount, and the most stringent treatment by law of the evil of the lobby, so as to obviate its necessity, take away its opportunity and give publicity to its acts."

take away its opportunity and give publicity to its acts.

Recognition of any well established political party on the official ballot is advocated, the same as the leading parties, and repeal of the law permitting recount of ballots is urged. Demand is made that the machinery of administrative work be so systematized that the Government shall be in last responsible to the people; this also to be accomplished by abolishing the elected council, which exists now in only three of the forty-four States, and which divides responsibility with the Governor.

The police force of Boston is controlled by a Stare commission over which the city has no control. "Ne self-respecting community in the Commonwealth," says the Governor, "after living and prospering under the blessings of liberty and self-government, would permit, without emphatic protest, such violation of their rights; nor is it easy to see why they should inflict or tolerate it up in their neighbors."

In this connection the extension of local self-government and relief from special egislation is ureed. State affairs and city needs are discussed at length and a public fast day is recommended. The Legislature is asked to memorialize Congress in favor of reciprocity with Canada.

The Governor's address closes thus: "God save the common wealth of Massachusets and keep us steadfast in her service."

that it did not ease is easily explained. Ever since the introduction of the contract system in 1871 it has been the custom of the Commissioners to enter into contracts for the leasing of labor for the longest period allowed by law which we have seen was eight years. This was found to be necessary, as contractors seemed inwilling to establish manufacturing industries in these institutions, or to contract for labor at all, unless the contracts were made to run for the maximum time allowed by law. This doubtiess was the bester plan, not only for the contracttors, but likewise for the Saite. When, therefore, the constitutional amendment took effect, as it did by virtue of the Governor's proclamation on the says that in his former message he "stood for compulsory education, and I favor that principle now. It was my belief then, as it is now, that popular Government, resting on universal manhood suffrage, cannot long endure unless the masses of our people are educated. I hold that if is morant, ne dectrul and victous parents will not educate their children voluntarily when schools are provided for that purpose, then they should be compelled to do so."

OTHER LEGISLATURES. NEW HAMPSHIRE'S NEEDS SET FORTH-IN-DIANA ASSEMBLY.

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 5 .- The Governor be gan his address with a financial statement of the Commonwealth, showing the total receipts of the year, $2,190,981,56; cash on hand Jan. 1, 1892, $345,219,11; net indebtedness June 1, 1892, $2,151,603,89, a reduction of $108,186,75, which sum represents the excess of revenue over expenses. The Governor commended the granger organizations and believes they elevate the dignity of the farmer's call, ing, and prevent the exodus of the rising generation from the farms of the State. He believes prohibition to be the best policy for New Hampshire, and any legislation radically changing, this policy or tending to weaken the force and effect of, the present law is to be deprecated. The Governor recommends appropriations in addition to the $150,000 already authorized for the World's Fair; also a monument to the herces of Stark's Brigade at Bennington; he approves the general workings of the Australian ballot law, but finds fault with several of its features. He recommends the appointment of a commissioner of labor, whose duty it shall be to collect facts and to study the social and other conditions of those engaged in manual and, more particularly, in manufacturing and mechanical industries, lie closes with an admonition. Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 5.—The Indiana Legislature assembled this morning for per-Legislature assembled this morning for permanent organization. The organization of the House was effected by the election of James P. Curtis of Indianapolis, as Speaker. Senator Francis Griffith was elected President pro tem. of the Senate. The Republicans had little to do with the organization, as the Senate stands 35 to 15 Democratic, giving 46 majority on joint ballot. Immediately after organizing both, branches adjourned until to-morrow morning, when the message of Gov. thase will be read. The Lexislature will select a successor to Senator Turple, and it is conceded that Turple will have no opposition, in view of the possibility of ex-Gov. Gray being a Cabinet or diplomatic service appointee.

The Great Clothing House Thronged To Day by Bargain Hunters.

F. W. Humphrey & Co.'s well-known clothing store, at the corner of Pine street and Broadway, was to-day thronged with the larges number of people who have visited it at one time since its establishment. All were attracted there by the sale of their large stock of choice $30@25 suits and overcoats at $15, a cheaper figure than the same class of goods have ever been offered at before in St. Louis. Even before the store was opened in the morning prospective purchasers began to could avail themselves of the opportunity offered. Towards noon was the busiest par of the day, and the extra large force of clerks, work as they might, found themselves totally unable to cope with the crowd. The public made the best of the situation and elbowed their way around the many tables, upon which wars pulled the grayments, making their own the many tables, upon which were piled the garments, making their own selections. All day long the crust continued to a greater of less extent; until the enormous stock of clothing which at first kiance appeared almost fin-x-baustible, began to melt away like anow before the sun. People of every class were anxious to secure some of the bargains off-red, and rich and poor mingled indiscriminately as they critically examined and appraise the value of each girment Almost without exception, ever-one who entered the store made a purchase of either a suit or overcoat, and, judcing from the remarks to be heard on every side, went away well satisfied with their experience. The variety of tryles offered was certainly sumeient to suit all tastes no matter how diversified and the quality excited wonder when one consistered the small price asked. The reputation of the small price asked. The reputation of the small measure to the great success of the sale.

To continue further personalities, we must chronicle how the freak of fashion is now leveled at the voice. Formerly one of the characteristics of a lady was her voice; it was soft, low, well-medulaie-i; poets and novelists bestowed this charm upon their heroines. But now the fashionable voice of the day is high, shrill and strident; an exaggerated imitation of American intonation would best describe it. These voices came not from the cuter ring of the circle, but from the charmed inner ring, the highest in rank being foremost in taking the lead in this respect. True, American voices are naturally on these lines, formerly regarded as a defect; but quaint Americanisms and American wit allied to the tones in which they are uttered give them

We have heard of a bold and costly undertaking which an eminent personare, still living, projected in his youth. He caused a magnet to be built of such size and power as had not yet been imagined: It was his latention to charge this gigantic object without witnesses, so as to enjoy the unparalleled result in selfah solitude. Happily, a great authority called at the moment and received an invitation to assist. When he saw the preparations his face paled. Solither he nor any one cise sould foretall what would happen if that twenty-four fact magnet were set to work; but it was probable, at least, that the house would fall. The thing still remains uncharged, or did a few years ago.

At the Hagan Corinne is scoring a great success in "Arcadia."

"The County lair" will appear on Sunday evening at Hagan's Opera-house, to remain one week, with two matinees. Wednesday and Saturday, with Neil Burgess as the star. The play opens in a New England sitting-room. The second act carries the spectators out of doors. The audience looks out into the country for miles and miles upon the picturesque scenes of Rock Bottom farm. The company of this season includes arie Bates as Adigall 'rue, Aarlon Bailou as Tags, Wm. Burton as Otis lucker, Henry Simon as Tim, the "Country Fair" quartette, etc. The homely, domestic flavor of the play, its characters pictured fatthfully after New England life, its husking-bee, its finging, its real cows and five real thoroughbred racers will appeal to all lovers of the drama.

Brewer Griesedleck's Divorce Suit. Anton Griesedieck, the aged brewer, brought suit for divorce yesterday from his wife, Gertrude, whom he married in 1868. He claims that he was a widower at the time He claims that he was a widower at the time and had three sons and a daughter by his first wife. By his present marriage he has three daughters and one son. He states that his wife has an ungovernable temper and when she works herself into a rage she abuses him in the most outrageous manner. In March, 1891, when the plaintiff's eldest daughter was about to be married, Mrs. Griecedieck became wild, he avers, and refused to have anything to do with any of them. She has refused to travel with him and told him, he claims, that she would not associate with him. He left her in November last.

Missionary Rollins' Statement. J. M. Rollins, late Methodist missionary i of his affair with Mrs. Dr. Dukes, said that the matter had been investigated by a committee, and he was acquitted of the accusa-tion of "force," the only charge now bein adultery. He had resigned his commission, se that the church authorities in Japan only had jurisdiction to try him. His wife and the people who know the facts best were more entions and Dances Inaugurate the Year of 1893.

THE BIG BALL GIVEN LAST NIGHT BY MRS. J. L. D. MORRISON.

Mrs. Mary F. Scanlan's New Your Party in Miss Scarff's Honor-Dinner of Mrs. Auguste Ewing to Miss Pos - Miss Kingsland Entertains Miss Kennerly and Bridemaids at a Luncheon.

The week opened up gaily enough, with numerous New Year receptions and danées, not the old-fashioned affairs, when every-body opened wide their doors to everybody else, but very delightful, exclusive affairs, informal of course, but all the more charming from their informality. Mrs. Scanlan's New Year reception, given in compliment to her guest, Miss Searst of Baltimore, was perhaps the largest and most notable of these New Year functions, inasmuch as she had quite a large receiving party of handsome matrons and maidens, Mrs. Auguste Chouteau, Mrs. J. L. D. Morrison, Mrs. Robert Floyd-Jones, Miss Scarff, Miss Marie Scanlan, Misses Martha and Frances Cabanne, Misses Beatrice and Carlotta Clark, Miss Agnes Fry, Miss Lucille Papin, Misses Marie and Fannie Carr, Miss Bella Wells, Miss Quita Bakewell, hiss Lucille Pa-pin, Miss Edith Rexterned others. After the reception they had a dance, the programme opening with a minuet.

On Monday evening Mrs. Auguste Ewing gave'a handsome dinner party in compli-ment to Miss Poe of Baitimore, who is visit-ing Mrs. Frank Lane, Miss Lane, Misses Marie and Claire Ewing, Misses Marie and Fannie Carr, with Messes. On Thursday afternoon Mrs. Joseph Pentertained the Souvenir Spoon Club at the sidence of Mrs. H. B. Slaughter, corner of ter place and Sarah. There was a full ati ance of the members, and a spir-ited game was played for the six prizes.

On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Charles Green gave a very elegant reception at her home, on Minnesota avenue, in compliment to her daughter, Miss Nellie Green, whom she introduced upon this occasion. Her handsome home was beautifully decked with plants and flowers, with white and gold for the leading tones. Miss Green wore an elegant gown of black-thread lace and jet. The fair debutante was gowned in pure white, a Parisian confec-tion, and carried white roses, In spite of the inclement weather there was a very large attendance of guests, the young people remaining for a dance in the evening.

Mrs. Wayman McCreery of Westminster place gave a charming little dance on Tuesday evening in compliment to her two young daughters, Misses Louise and Christine. Her lovely home presented a most attractive interior, with its handsome decorations and furnishing as a settling for the bevy of pretty young demoiselies and their partners, as they fitted through the figures of the dance.

Miss Louise 'impkins gave a progressive euchre party to her young friends on Tuesday evening.

Miss Mary Boyce gave a dinner party at Hotel Beers on Wednesday evening to a company of twelve.

One of the handsomest balls of the season was given by Mrs. J. L. D. Morrison at Mahler's on Olive street last evening. The hall was profusely decorated with ferns, paims and white lillies. The refreshment tables were decorated with ferns and a huge center plece of white lillies and white carnations, which filled the whole atmosphere with their delicate perfume. Mrs. Morrison was attired in a magnificent white brocade, draped with black chantily lace and diamonds for ornaments. Miss Bella Bells, who was of the receiving party, was gowned in a beautiful Parisian confection of striped pink and white silk and she wore a necklace of rubles. Miss Frances Cabanne, also of the receiving party, wore a pink brocade with sleeves and garniture of point de venise. Miss Garesche, who also assisted in receiving, wore a pale pink chiffon, made with a bebe waist.

Miss Bessie Kingsiand gave a handsome

O'Nell, Marguerite Gibney, Carrie Dowd and Jessie O'Nell.

Miss Addie Mitchell, who usually spends the winter season in New York City with friends at the Murray Hill Hotel, left for the East just before Christmas, and will spend several weeks in New York. Mrs. J. J. Mitchell has recently returned from a trip to Illinois, where she joined her married daughter, who came up from the South to place her son at college.

Miss Gertie O'Nell gave a New Year's party Monday evening. The hostess was assisted by Miss Carrie Shea and wore a scarlet China silk, made in empire style and decorated with sprays of holly, with a bunch of the same, interspersed with berries, in her gold-brown hair. Miss Snea was attired in light blue crepe. Among the guests were the Misses Rose Monet, Suile Melion, Birdie Kehlor, Emma Bauer and others.

WOMEN IN COLLEGE.

Effect on St. Louis of the Precedent of the Jesuit University in New York. The success of a New York young woman it gaining admission to the free post-graduate course in moral philosophy at St. Franci Xavier's Jesuit College in that city will probably result in an attempt being made by women to enter the post-graduate course lectures in moral philosophy at the St. Louis University, the Jesuit College in this city. It was through the efforts of Archbishop Corrigan that the New York college consented to receive a woman in their post-graduate department. A graduate of Harvard Annax is the first woman to avail herself of the privilege in New York. Some ten years ago Miss Marie Garesche of St. Louis, then quite a young school girl wrote the Jesuit fathers of the St. Louis University, asking for the admission of women to the school, with the privilege of attending the post-graduate lectures. It was this same house that Tom Kelly lived in while training for his fight.

"NOBBY" CLARK ARRIVES.

New York, Jan. 5 .- "Nobby" Clark, the well-known English trainer of pugilists, arrived from London. Clark, after attending to some personal business relative to his stay in America, left for Boston. Clark will call on Dick Burge, whom he expects to man-age and train. Very few know of Clark's ad-vent in this country.

SULLIVAN'S MANAGER LEAVES HIM. LONDON, Jan, 5.—Frank Moran, who has time past, has severed his connection with the ex-champion. Just what caused the break has not yet been learned.

Prize fighting has taken quite a hold in East St. Louis, and here are a few of the mills that will be pulled off next Saturday might, Jan. 7:

Ed Rogan (Windy, the Dublin Boy) will try and best "Snowball" Hawkins of Belleville Athletic Club, in six rounds.

Jack Murphy, alias "Red Bud Jack," will try and stop Paddy Winters in ten rounds for a purse of $100. The big event of the night will be between Blily Suits and Billy Haneberry, "Phily the Red," who will night to a finish at catch reights for $250. The fight will occur hear French Village the milled off before the Clan-Na-Gael and be pulled off before the Clan-Na-Gael Athletic Club.

Bill Suits is training at Madison and will be handled by wm. Klinger and Tommy Flynn and Geo. Whitsell will be his bottle-holder. 'Philly the Red' will have E. Hennesy and Elily Farrell in his corner and German Dauer is bottle-holder.

John Klidea and Jack Trendley have been asked to act as stakeholder and referee and they will probably accept.

Jack Trendley is now handling Julius Voll-rath, the German cyclone, and will match his to knock out any one in four rounds the high to the big battle.

PUGILISTIC POINTERS.

McAuliffe has the unqualified nerve to another than the will fight Burge for a $50,000 purse. Harry Sharps and Frank Crosty, both local light-weights, have been matched for a finish fight for 2500 as see. The men will weight in at 130 pounds. Jim Corbett-announced at Columbus, O., last night that he would fight Charlie Mitcheli and then retire from the ring. He is not anxious to meet Jackson.

The Scoggan Brothers sold a number of NEW ORLEARS, La., Jan. 5.—The fight between Andy Bowen and Joe Fielden will take place to-night in the arena of the Crescent that will come off before that club. There is considerable interest manifested in the affect of the first event that will come off before that club. There is considerable interest manifested in the affect of the part of the same place for his clty, as it is the first time he has ever been matched to fight here. He is a fine-looking young fellow and has a record of thirty fights and no defeats. He fought the "Belfast Spider" and is credited with a draw. He has been in training at Prof. Bobertson's camp in Bay St. Louis and has been handled by Billy McMillin of Chicago and Tommy Ryan, who, is training at the same place for his fight with Dawson. Both Ryan and Dawson say that Fielden, will win.

Bowen is the favorite with the local sports and will carry their coin on the mill. Andy trained for the event at Mississippi City and writes to his seconds that he will win sure.

A cable dispatch gives a list of the horses Col. North will send over to this country during the coming spring to race at Chicago and the East. All of the horses are of high class and will no doubt acquit themselves well if properly handled. They are:

To-day the general financial outlook is such as to inspire confidence.

Sales agents would have been entirely willing to take at part the newspaper reports in the past week of a sale of Norrie ore to the lillinois Steel Co, and of 200,000 tons of Florence ore; and especially willing to have these sales made at "last year's prices" as the report about the Norrie had it. But the fact is that not a pound of ore has been sold on hew contracts, unless it has been done without the knowledge of Cleveland sales agents. One must except, of course, the small lot sales for immediate use that are a part of every week's record in the ore market. The furnace men have not yet come to the ore sellers even to satisfy any curjosity they may have as to the basis of transactions the coming geason, and from indications there will be no effort on the part of ore firms to force matters. Some sales of 200 and 300 ton lots of pig are reported in the week, with one or two transactions of 1,000 tons, but sellers have expected nothing and business has been close to their expectations.

CHANGES IN THE BELATIVE POSITIONS OF THE COMPETITORS.

The Leaders Likely to Be Overtaken and Passed at Any Moment-How to Pack nd Send in Your Collections o Coupons - No Pooling of Interests Is Quite a shaking up has taken place amon the leaders in the Post-Dispardu contest to name the most popular letter-carrier in St. Louis. The first four competitors still retain the lead, but some of the others are coming rapidly and bid fair to pass them the near future. Carrier G. horn, who was the ninth Sagehorn, who was the ninth yesterday, now occupies fifth place. Carrier G. W. Davison jumped from twelfth place to eighth, and Carrier Lenry Wagner advanced Just six points. Several new contestants sent in coupons, the largest number being forwarded by John W. Peigen, carrier No. 276, who assumed the nineteenth position on the list. The others were carriers Michael Murphy, No. 131; Eynnaten, No. 424, and Fred Berg, No. 230. Other changes in the relative positions of the contestants are

In sending in collections of coupons it is elways advisable to pack them as neatly as possible in order to facilitate the count, and to prevent errors. Do not roll your coupons up in bundles, but preserve them as straight and flat as pos-Always state the total number of coupons sent. Thus providing a check upon the count here. Wrap your coupons up Individual effort alone must be depended upon in this contest. As stated daily in the conditions, no pooling of votes will be allowed and any competitors found clubbing will be at once disqualified. Such an attempt will be at once disqualified. Such an attempt cannot be kept secret, and every case will be thoroughly investigated before the final award is made. No exceptions to this rule will be made in favor of anyone. The public themselves can probably do more to prevent any such attempt and to promote fair play than anything else. Before handing your coupons to your favorite carrier ascertain his name and number and fill out the blank spaces on the bullet with the same in ins.

spaces on the ballot with the same in ink In no case should coupons be handed to car

DAILY AND SUNDAY, 15 CENTS A WEEK.

Any inquiries or communications sent to this office should be written on one side of the paper only. No attention will be paid to letters in which this rule is broken.

In every issue of this paper, until March 4.

1893, will be printed a "Carriers' Coupon" blank, which should be cut out, filled in with the name and number of your favorite carrier, and handed to him, or sent in to this office. The coatest will be confined to St.

Louis patrons of the Post-Disparcia because it is for the benefit of the letter carriers of it is for the benefit of the letter carriers of It is for the benefit of the letter carriers of St. Louis that the gift is made. The prizes will be awarded as follows:

$500 in gold to the first winner. $250 in gold to the second winner. $100 in gold to the third winner. $75 in gold to the fourth winner. $650 in gold to the fifth winner. $35 in gold to the sixth winner. Total $1,000 in gold.

To insure perfect fairness in the contes the Post-Dispatch will not be sold in large numbers to any persons. No effort will be spared to make everything perfectly fair and "May the best man win," is the motto for the Post-Disparch "Letter-Carriers" Con-test," and with that motto for a rallying cry test," and with that motto for a railying cry the contest opens right now.

Clip out the coupon and vote for your mailcarrier. From now until March 4, 1893, just as regularly as the prompt and unfailing postman comes to your door with the mail, just so regularly can you cast a vote for him in the Post-Disparch "Letter-Carriers' Contest" to show him that you appreciate his faithful service.
Get an early start by beginning to day, and then keep up the good work for your and then keep up the good work for yourpostman. It's going to be a hot race, and you want him to win. Don't let him have occasion, therefore, to believe that he falled in the contest because he served a lot of people who were too indifferent to his welfare to even take the trouble, to eller a couron for. even take the trouble to clip a coupon for him.

See to it that every morning when your postman rings the bell at your house, the first thing to be done will be to hand him a Post-Disparcii "Carrier Coupon" with his name written on it. That's a very little thing to do, so far as trouble goes, but the daily doing of it means victory for your postman.

If you don't want to work it that way, elip out, or let one of the children clip out, the "Carrier Coupon" every day and save the coupons thus collected until the closing day of the contest. Then hand them in a bunch to your postman, one for every day from Dec. 4, 1892, to March 4, 1893. The boys and girls will be tickled to death

The boys and girls will be tickled to death to take a hand in the contest in this way, because there isn't one of them but likes the "postman on our block." He knows every one of 'em and they know him.

Get your neighbors into the good work. You all know how faithful the mail-carrier has been in his service to you. This is your chance to recognize that faithfulness.

Clip out the Post-Disparten "Carrier Coupons" and give 'em to your carrier. Let him get the $500 gift in the contest.

A LITTLE WORKER ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 4. To the Post-Dispatch:

I am a little girl, greatly interested in our letter carrier, and I would like to have some help in collecting coupons, and would be very thanking to any of the kind readers of the Post-Disparch who will lend me their assistance, and oblige a riend of this interesting paper.

543 South Ewing aveaus. SHOWS KINDNESS AND GOOD WILL.

To the Post Dispatch:

In hopes of equiviling and interesting those who have not yet been aroused to the good will and kindness they may show, by simply clipping the coupon out of the Post-Dispatch for their carrier, I pen these few lines. Any one wishing to send compons to a deserving carrier will address them to Post-Dispatch in favor of G. W. Davisor, Carrier, 323, and greatly oblige me.

Sr. Louis, Mo., Jan. 3.

To the Post- Dispatch: To the Post-Dispatch:
Inclosed find a bundle of coupons for G. W. Davison, carrier 323, Station A. Hoping this number will put him at the top of the list, for I would like ever so much to see him win the first prize, as he is "cur Dotz" and the nicest and best letter-carier in St. Louis. Yours truly,
M. K.

IS HARD IN THE SUBURBS. ST. LOUIS, Jan. 4.

To the Post-Dispatch: Undoubtedly carriers delivering mail in the heart of the city will stand a better chance in the contest than those far out, So it is in the suburbs the coupon gatherers will be kept busy. Any one not saving coupons for a favorite kindly send them to me. A more worthy carrier than ours cannot be found. I hope he will win a prize.

2031 East Grand avenue. WANTS TO SEE HIM FIRST.

To the Post-Dispatch: I hope these few coupons, with all the rest that I ntend sending, will put our faithful carrier, I. J. actiuire, No. I next time the list is published.

NELLUS.

WILL BE THANKFULLT RECEVED.
ST. LOUIS, Jan. 3.

THE LUCKY "HUNCH." ST. LOUIS, Jan. 3. To the Post-Disnatch:

Inclosed please find a number of ballots for John F. Kera, No. 32. We now hellove he is the winner because a hunch-back unknowingly sat on these bal-lots for fifteen minutes. Good luck for Kern. Yours, etc., BILL, BILLY AND BILL. ST. Louis, Jan. 2, 1893.

To the Post-Dispatch: WHEN IT OPENED. ST. LOUIS, Jan. 3.

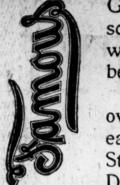

To the Post-Dispatch: Kindly publish in your paper when the letter carriers' contest opened, and oblige X. L. CIOR.

[This contest was started Dec. 4.] A LITTLE GIRL'S FAVORITE

To the Post-Dispatch: St. Louis, Jan. 3, 1893. I am a little girl 11 years old and I write this lefter to you and beg you to publish it. I would like to see our carrier, Patrick Brown, No. 163, win, as he is the nicest and kindest carrier in the world. All those naving coupons and having no favorite please and their coupons to me, as I want him to win. My little brother is haping me to get our carrier.

Will you be one of the Incky ones to take advantage?

You Know Where We Are?

HE IS IN THE LEAD. St. Louis, Jan. 8.

The management of the lecture by the Hon. Henry Watterson have decided to change the place of its delivery from Exposition Music Hall to Entertainment Hall. Those who have purchased tickets for the former place can have them exchanged at Baimer & Weber's, 209 North Fourth street. There has been a large sale, and a fine audience will greet Mr. Watterson.

Federal Court Notes.

A cold wave is predicted by the Weathe Bureau for to-morrow. The thermomete will fall from 16 to 20 degs., and by Frida morning will be little above zero. There is no sign of show.

Pacific Raiiroad was filed. Jones was a switchman on the road, and alleges that owing to a badly constructed frog his toot was caught, and a train passed over it. He received a verdict for $7,000 damages, from which the raiiroad company appealed.

In the District Court the jury disagreed in the case of C. C. Dennis, charged with using the mails for fraudulent purposes, and was discharged.
